value of the goods and chattels and the damages, if any, for their detention.

Reservation of Points for Court in Banc.

1868, ch. 441, sec. 1.

112. When at the trial of any cause any party to such cause shall require any point or question decided by the court to be reserved for the consideration of the court in banc, and either of the judges of the said court shall be disqualified to sit in such cause, then it shall be lawful for the party at whose instance the point or question shall be reserved, to elect to have such point or question decided by the remaining judges or judge who may be qualified to sit in such cause, or to have the cause removed to some other court of a different circuit for the decision of the judges thereof, or of such of said judges who may be qualified to sit in such cause in banc, or to take an appeal to the court of appeals; and if such party or his counsel shall fail to make and file such election in writing within thirty days after the announcement of such disqualification, or within thirty days after the trial of the cause, in case such announcement shall have been made before the trial, then such point or question shall be decided by the remaining judges or judge who may be qualified to sit in such cause; provided, that every point or question reserved upon a motion for a new trial shall be decided by the remaining judges or judge who may be qualified to sit in such cause.

1868, ch. 441, sec. 2.

Ibid. sec. 3.

114. Whenever any cause shall be removed to any other court upon a point or question reserved for the court in banc, as herein provided, the said cause shall remain in the said court for trial as if the same had originated therein.
